

COMMUNICATION STATUS MANAGEMENT SYSTEM AND METHOD

ABSTRACT

The present invention provides a method for 5 communication status management. A first status change request is received from a user, the first status change request including at least a first user status and a first duration. A first current user communication status is established based on the first status change request. The 10 user is prompted based on the first duration. In a particular aspect, the first status change request includes a first user status message.